

Principle	Indicator
Scientist-Practitioner	An interactive science-practice paradigm is sustained by regular cross-discipline workgroups to support the high quality evolution of SNAP program development, outcomes and research.
Client-Centred	Services are informed by client personal and cultural narratives and goals, ensuring client responsiveness through growth oriented engagement and alliances.
Gender Sensitive	Specific gendered factors which account for differential development, learning styles, and trajectories of boys and girls with conduct problems are integrated throughout SNAP programs.
Ecosystemic	Each client's ecological system (individual, home, school, community) is assessed to identify and inform strengths, needs, and risk and protective factors and to match them with appropriate service components and treatment intensity.
Strength and Skill Based	Specific, consistent use of positive reinforcement, as part of our evidence-based, cognitive-behavioural practice, promotes and strengthens individual capabilities and the acquisition of primary SNAP skills: emotion regulation, self-control and problem solving.
Continuing Services	Continuing needs and commitment to service are regularly and jointly assessed to support and ensure high risk families, children and youth are engaged in services.
Collaborative	Effective collaborations with appropriate child and family oriented services are conducted to ensure service coordination and family support system development during and after SNAP services.
Community-Responsive	SNAP programs are adapted to diverse, cultural and socio-economic factors that characterize communities in order to be responsive to social determinants of child and family mental health.
Accountable Service Excellence	Combination of high quality staff development activities, that include consistent supervision, training, integrity and the attainment of accountable standards assessed through a series of well- developed research, evaluation, fidelity and quality assurance activities foster overall service excellence.